

Communications Intern

Young People For

Young People For (YP4) is a social justice incubator. We provide life-long social justice leadership training to unlock the potential of young people historically left out of opportunity. We are a national network that centers black, brown, indigenous, disabled, and LGBTQ+ leaders in education, media, politics, business, government, and everywhere. There are two components of our work, the year-long Fellowship for college-aged folks and the intergenerational Alumni network comprised of over 2,000 young people.

Position Summary: The communications intern assists the communications and policy team by creating and editing written and digital content and assisting with other various communications efforts. This position offers a chance to see national and regional communications strategies in action to advance a progressive political agenda.

Responsibilities:

- Write blog posts, social media posts, or other materials
- Assists with basic editing and proofreading
- Assist with communications and project-related research
- Create media press clips

Qualifications:

- Strong writing, editing and organizational skills
- Ability to self-manage, multi-task if needed, and work under reasonable deadlines
- Working knowledge of word processing, Excel, and PowerPoint. Basic proficiency in Adobe Creative Suite preferred.
- Basic understanding of national politics and a commitment to YP4's progressive mission

Hours: Minimum of 16 hours per week, preferably in full or half days, in our Washington, D.C. office.

Compensation: Interns are paid the D.C. hourly minimum wage rate (currently, $14.00 per hour), and are not eligible for benefits.

To Apply: Please send a cover letter and resume to hr@pfaw.org with "YP4 Communications Intern" in the title. In the body of the email, please indicate your availability to begin the position and the hours available to devote to the internship.